

Marcia Howard. House of Song
(One-Woman Show. Part Concert, Part Singalong)

Join award winning singer-songwriter Marcia Howard as she retells the story of her life in song, story and imagery. House of Song opens up the treasure trove of memories in a theatre-style performance encompassing soundscapes, projections and song. It's about a woman's journey through song –that deals with life, love, identity, loss, redemption and survival. The audience is encouraged to sing along throughout the show. Share Marcia's journey, from her early years of growing up in her South West Victorian musical family through to the 1980's and her time on the road as a member of the iconic award-winning Goanna band whose song Solid Rock, written by Marcia's brother Shane Howard, was ground breaking.

"My mother, Teresa Madden was a singer and pianist. I grew up in a house of song and it was full of music, stories, laughter and harmonies!" Every time I perform the show I hope to create that house of song with the audience", she says.

Marcia shares her experiences of life on the road as a young woman in a male dominated industry and recalls the influence of her introduction to Aboriginal Australia and the friendships forged over the years that have informed her relationship to country and to place and her connection with Ireland the land of her ancestors where she has spent a lot of time recording and performing with Irish artists. Marcia has graced the stage with many International artists over her long career. Her voice described as “one of the finest” (The Voice, Season 5) and her songs recorded in Ireland, Nashville, and Australia reflect her Celtic and folk-rock influences. She features on, A Woman’s Heart - a decade on, singing her song, Poison Tree with Mary Black. Marcia has released five solo albums. Her latest album is Everything Reminds Me.

Her latest one-woman show, House of Song, co-written with Sherri McIver is being performed at an intimate House Concert Torquay, Feb 15th (Eventbrite) and The Tap Room Castlemaine (Try booking) and Feb. 22nd the Camelot Lounge, Marrickville Sydney March 27th (Camelot Lounge). She will be supported by Liam Gubbins (Gub) and Matiss Schubert. This is your last chance to see Marcia perform her unique show before she heads off to Ireland to perform with the legendary Irish singer Mary Black and the Irish National Symphony Orchestra this March in Dublin. She has made wonderful music with the best from around the world, from Mary Black to Bob Dylan, James Taylor, The Chieftains and back home to Archie Roach. As an ambassador for the Ruby Hunter Legacy, Mothers’ Milk Bank Charity, Marcia attended the Yaama Ngunna Baaka Corroboree Festival held in Outback New South Wales last October and co-wrote, “Save the Rivers, Yaama Ngunna Baaka”. All proceeds from the download of the song go to the MMBC. <https://fanlink.to/cmjS?sfns=mo>
